“ I'll surely miss seeing my friend around this neighborhood and reminiscing about the good ole days. I met Sonya back when I ran my own business and she came into my employ. A few might be surprised if they knew that In all the years I knew her, my relationship with her was purely platonic but my instinct about her was exactly what I needed in an employee. Her work ethic was outstanding and she was one of the most hard-working employees (male or female) I have ever seen. She took pride in being the best that she could be. And that was way better than most. Until we meet again my friend.

“ What a character! What a gal! What a friend! Not only did Sonya serve her country proudly, she also renewed my faith in what friendship should be, something I had given up on many years ago. I was greatly surprised (and humbled) that she accepted me just as I am, like only a family member would do, In speaking with some of her other friends it is clear to me that I am not the only person other than her family who is grief-stricken at losing a very real, very giving, and genuinely good person, and she is already missed so much more than words can say! But I am grateful to have had Sonya in my life, if only for a short time. I will remember and miss her for the rest of my life. It's hard not to question God's plan when He calls the good ones Home, but acceptance is in knowing that she is free and focusing on the positive impact she left in my life. Thank you for that, my friend. RIP.
