“ One of many memories I have of Uncle Arnold is sitting by the fire at the lake where he and his brothers told the the tale that if you burn a log in the middle, an Indian would jump out of the dark and cut your head off. To this day, I think of that story every time I sit by a campfire. --TH

“ Uncle Arnold always treated all the neighborhood kids as if they were one of his own. Some even wanted him to "come out and play". And he always keep us entertained!
