“ Stella was one our favorite people. She was always so happy to see old classmates and friends who married into the class,so to speak. I feel blessed to be one of those who married one of them just to a part of that group... We had just stopped in to see her a few days ago when we were down home.. Tho' she was groggy, she knew who we were and smiled at us and tried to converse a bit . We like to think that she's well now and is with her beloved Henry.. Night Night Stella, we're all better for having known you..
